

Press Release: February 20, 2017

Integrated Process Resources launches new Think Environmental brand

Company adds new d/b/a to emphasize leadership in environmental compliance

Houston, Texas, February 20, 2017 – Integrated Process Resources, Inc. today introduced its new Think brand with the intention of operating its environmental compliance services business under the d/b/a Think Environmental.

Think Environmental remains committed to being the premier leak detection (LDAR) services provider in the industry. Both our operational track record and safety performance are best-in-class. At the same time, our 2017 focus includes consulting, auditing, training, and other environmental compliance services. The Think brand better represents our efforts to continually improve and expand our service offerings and capabilities.

“2017 is a big year for our company, and the Think name is just one of many positive changes. As we focus on improving our existing LDAR programs and offering new services to our customers, I am confident that we’re on our way to clearly establishing Think Environmental as the premier environmental compliance company in the industry,” said Rick Pruet, President.

The transition to the Think Environmental d/b/a will happen throughout 2017, in accordance with our customers’ policies and requirements.

For more information regarding our services, visit www.thinkenvironmental.com.

Media Contacts

Jeff Diehl, Think Environmental
jeffd@thinkenvironmental.com

Karl Shultz, Think Environmental
karls@thinkenvironmental.com

About Think Environmental

Think Environmental has been a leader in leak detection services for over 25 years. We value our long-term business relationships and strong operational track record, and conduct business with integrity, honesty and ethics. Our operational goals are simple: zero compliance issues, zero safety incidents.